

Langtang Valley Trek

As most of the trekking in Langtang entirely takes place below 4000m, the trekking trail is suitable for trekkers of all ages and under any physical condition. There are comfortable lodges, guesthouses, and homestay available along the route.

Langtang Valley Trek is one of the most popular treks famous for its snow-capped peaks, pine and rhododendron forests, mountain streams, and meadows. Langtang Trek, also known as glaciers trek, is located at 122 kilometres north of Kathmandu in Rasuwa district and is less busy than other crowded trails. The Langtang region is home to Tamang and Tibetan communities who have a strong Buddhist culture and tradition. Dominated by Mt. Langtang Lirung (7246m), the Langtang Trek provides a spectacular view of the Langtang Lirung, Gyanchenpo, Dorjelakpa, Gyanjala, Gosainkunda, and Ganesh Himal ranges. The route is notable for its two high passes, Tilman Pass (5308m) and Ganja La Pass (5160m).

Regular public buses and private jeeps travel directly from Kathmandu to Dhunche (1960m) or Syabrubesi (1503m). After that, you can begin your journey to Langtang Valley, going through Khangjim (2235m), Sherpagaun (2563m), Lama Hotel (2340m), Ghoratabela (3030m), Langtang Village (3430m), and lastly Kyangjing Gompa (3830m). The Langtang Village was most severely damaged by the 2015 earthquake. Trekking has resumed in Langtang after local communities restored lodges and trekking pathways.

Kyangjing Gompa offers stunning views of Langtang Ri and Yala Peak, as well as the prospect of a day trip to Langshisa Kharka (4285m) and Langtang Glacier (4800m). You can also climb Tshergo Ri without paying the royalties. The entire trail runs through Langtang National Park, which is home to endangered species such as the Red Panda, Snow Leopard, and Himalayan Black Bear. The woodland contains a mixture of pine, oak, and rhododendron species.

The Langtang Valley trekking trail is excellent for people of all ages and physical abilities. There are pleasant lodges along the way.
