

Arun River Rafting

The powerful current and large water volume make sure huge and remarkable rapids have encountered the length of this river journey. The rapids can be technically and challenging compound. Adventure water trip is known as rafting.

The Arun is an excellent choice for a long whitewater rafting trip for those who are seeking a true adventure and the thrill of encountering huge rapids in a peaceful setting. It is the first choice for those wanting a whitewater expedition into the wilderness area

.Arun River and its branches drain a huge watershed, the river carries a high load of sediment, & glacial silt- color varies between a milky brown to a granny.

The deep gorges of the upper river have granite canyons clad in the overhanging jungle and a wide variety of plant and animal life - very beautiful, but at times damp and gloomy.

This river flows by the melting of Mt. Makalu (8462m) and other mountains of that region uniting with thousands of small spring and streams along the thick woods of the famous Arun valley before winding its way down through the hinterlands of eastern Nepal.
