Day Tour to Swayambhunath

Swayambhu is one of the world's most glorious Buddhist Chaityas. It's positioned on the top of the west flank of Kathmandu and is one of the most popular, mysterious, and characteristic symbols of Nepal. The temple is popularly known as the monkey temple as large packs of monkeys gather around the temple. The golden spire of Swayambhunath stupa crowns a wooded hillock and offers a fascinating view of Kathmandu city. There are 365 steps leading up to the Temple which is believed to be the self-created in the 5th century. The architectural beauty of Swayambunath Temple gives you will fulfill you with a serene and humble feeling. The stupa consists of a dome at the base and a cubical structure with the eyes of Buddha looking in all four directions.

You can return to the hotel after viewing the sunset from Swayambhunath since your trip is absolutely private.
