Tamor River Rafting

Along the Tamor there are very few villages and limited agricultural areas. Its shores are dotted with pristine white sandy beaches which are ideal for camping. The Tamor offers spectacular white water. This trip involves a three-day trek through the foothill of Himalayas. Combining the best of Nepal's rafting and trekking, this is an unforgettable journey. The river well earned its name, 'the jewel of the east'.Tamur, a major river in eastern Nepal begins from Mount Kanchenjunga (8,586 meters) joining Sapta Koshi later on. Guarded by sharp valley walls, it becomes Nepal's sixth largest river and one of the best whitewater river trips in such remote area.

Itinerary:

Day 1: Biratnagar-Basantapur

Fly to Biratnagar and then to Basantapur by land transport, which is the real starting point for your trekking trip

Day 01-05: Trekking 4 days to Dovan via Gupha Pokhari

We start our four-day treks into the heart of eastern Nepal and will stop for lunch and relax and enjoy the views and culture of local village life. Trek up over the Milke Danda via Gupha Pokhari to Dobhan from where we will start our rafting trip. This route has spectacular mountain views of Mount Everest, Makalu, and Kanchenjunga. Porters will be carrying the main loads (including kayaks and rafts!) We make camp.

Day 6: The white water action begins from Dovan

Your expedition leader and your raft guide will give you a detailed safety briefing. Then for the rest of the day (apart from the lunch break of course), you are in a turquoise blue class 4 white water paradises.

Day 7: and ending point for the day is not mention because of this is the remote area for the white water rafting

This is grade 2 - 4 the whole day passing through villages and spotting wildlife particular to this area.

Day 8: Places are not mentioned because of this is one of the remote areas for the white water rafting

Time to have a break. We have given you a rest day to enjoy the beach life or go for a day trek to the local villages who are always so welcoming and inspiring with their unending supply of enthusiasm and smiles.

Day 9: Starting and ending point for the day is not mention because of this is one of the remote areas for the white water rafting

The action continues as you tackle more class 2-4 rapids all the way.

Day 10: Starting and ending point for the day is not mention because of this is one of the remote areas for the white water rafting

Relax and enjoy a mellow day on the river as you float through the day with the occasional "all forward call" to bring you back into action. You need to relax so you are ready for tomorrow!

Day 11: The final day, raft take out in Chatara and transfer to Biratnagar for the flight to Kathmandu or go for the safari trip either in Koshi Tappu or in Chitwan National park or drive back to Kathmandu

There could not be a better way to end an expedition like this other than on continuous class 4 for half a day. Perfect action on a perfect river. We end the journey in Chatara.
